fashion has a right to exist,
because it permits
people to define themselves
over and over again.

I dress to withstand the elements. I dress to be as interesting as the Tate. I dress to insert myself into social strata,
to be accepted, to pass.

A full-body photograph of a woman standing against a wall made of large, rectangular grey stone tiles. She is wearing a long-sleeved kurta with a grey base and intricate blue and gold patterns. A blue dupatta with a white floral pattern is draped over her shoulders and around her waist. She is also wearing blue patterned trousers and silver high-heeled sandals. Her hair is dark and styled in loose waves, and she is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression.

Anyone can wear anything in fashion, as long as is worn by a celebrity they love.

Clothes can suggest, persuade, connote, insinuate, or indeed lie, and apply subtle pressure while their wearer is speaking frankly and straightforwardly of other matters.

lovely, generous thing to do for other people

Evening fashions have to be fabulous. Don't be just better... be the BEST.

The fashion look of teens and twentysomethings - once so cutting edge - is now, like most of the music played on the radio, a matter of routine. Safe, tired, everywhere.
